

CODE OF BUSINESS CONDUCT

June 12, 2026

A MESSAGE FROM OUR CO-CHAIRMEN AND CO-CEO'S

At HEICO, we conduct our business with the utmost honesty, integrity and ethical behavior. These standards are the cornerstone that enable us to manufacture great quality products, perform outstanding services, provide unmatched customer service and excel in all we do.

This Code of Business Conduct is not an exhaustive set of requirements, but rather a summary guide of important standards that underlie our business ethics and professional integrity. These standards apply to all HEICO Team Members, including those at all our subsidiaries. Additionally, more detailed policies apply to other situations and individuals depending on specific areas of responsibility and location.

Eric A. Mendelson

After reading this Code of Business Conduct, we encourage you to discuss its contents with others and to ask questions if any items are unclear. Should you know of any events or transactions that violate this Code of Business Conduct, any of our other policies or applicable laws, it is your responsibility to communicate such information promptly to your manager, Human Resources, President of your subsidiary, the Compliance Officer (Director of Internal Audit), the HEICO Legal Department or our anonymous and confidential hotline that has been established for this purpose.

Your cooperation in this effort is critical to ensure that HEICO continues to do business in the most honest and ethical manner.

PURPOSE, SCOPE & GUIDELINES

HEICO's Code of Business Conduct (our "Code") has been created to reinforce our policies and to serve as a guide on how we conduct our business with integrity. Every one of us at HEICO Corporation and our subsidiaries (collectively, "HEICO" or the "Company"), including all our officers, directors, employees and contractors (collectively "Team Members") is expected to understand and follow our Code and other policies and comply with all applicable laws, regardless of position and location.

Our Code provides core guiding principles for the conduct of our business. Our Code should be utilized in recognizing and resolving the ethical and legal issues that may be encountered while conducting business. This Code is not a substitute for the consistent application of sound judgment and personal integrity. We cannot be experts in all of the laws and regulations that apply to our business, but we are expected to be aware of them, how they apply to our daily jobs and to question your course of action whenever you are uncertain.

Specifically, when considering a given course of action or ethical dilemma always consider the following questions:

Is it legal and ethical?

Is it consistent with the Company's policies?

Does it protect or preserve my reputation or the reputation of the Company?

Is it safe for the life, health, welfare or reputation of others?

Would I feel comfortable if the action or decision were publicized in the news, internet, or on social media?

Would I feel comfortable discussing my action or decision with my manager, customers, family or friends?

If the answer to any of these questions is "no," then you should reconsider your action or decision. If you are still unsure, seek guidance from your manager, HEICO subsidiary President, Human Resources, the Compliance Officer, or the HEICO Legal Department. But never compromise your integrity.

At HEICO, your compliance with our Code is essential for the Company's continued development, compliance and overall success. While our Code does not constitute a contractual commitment of the Company and does not change the at-will employment status of a Team Member, it does impose important obligations on each of you. Thank you in advance for reading and understanding the contents of our Code. We encourage and expect you to put its standards into practice during all of your work activities.

To share any suggestions or comments that will help us improve our Code, please email your supervisor, the Compliance Officer, or the HEICO Legal Department.

WHAT TEAM MEMBERS MUST DO

A fundamental part of being a HEICO Team Member is respecting and adhering to these policies. Many HEICO policies reflect legal and regulatory requirements, and policy violations can create significant liability for HEICO and its Team Members. Liability may not only result in monetary damages but could also threaten our ability to continue to do business and expose our Team Members to fines, penalties and imprisonment.

You are responsible for asking questions, seeking guidance, and reporting actual or reasonably suspected violations of our Code. If you have questions about our Code as it applies to your role or require guidance when legal or ethical issues arise in the workplace, you must speak with your manager, Human Resources, the Compliance Officer, the HEICO Legal Department or our anonymous and confidential hotline, The Network at 1-(888) 270-5942.

GENERAL RESPONSIBILITIES:

Gain a basic understanding of our Code.

Learn and understand how our Code impacts your role with the Company and how to avoid violations thereof.

Become knowledgeable about all Company policies, including those specific to your business unit and job function.

Comply with our Code, HEICO policies and applicable laws.

Promptly report actual or reasonably suspected violations of our Code, other HEICO policies and applicable laws.

Cooperate fully and honestly in any investigation of violations. Failure to cooperate fully in our investigation or the failure to be fully truthful when providing a statement or other information in such investigation is grounds for disciplinary action, including termination.

CONSEQUENCES OF NONCOMPLIANCE

Team Members who do not meet their responsibilities under our Code face disciplinary action up to and including termination. Additionally, in some circumstances, the wrongdoer(s) may be subject to civil and/or criminal investigation, prosecution and fines or other penalties imposed by regulatory authorities. The following examples of conduct can result in disciplinary action or even termination of employment:

- Violating this Code, another HEICO policy or any laws or directing another Team Member to do the same.
- Authorizing any action or decision that violates this Code.
- Failing to promptly report a known or reasonably suspected violation of our Code or another HEICO policy or any laws.
- Failing to fully and honestly cooperate in HEICO investigations of possible violations.
- Failing as a leader to diligently pursue compliance with HEICO's Code, policies and procedures, and applicable laws.
- Retaliating against another Team Member for reporting violations as set forth in the Anti-Retaliation Policy below.

THE REPORTING PROCESS

Honesty and Integrity are the foundation upon which HEICO has built its business. Absolute consistency between what we say and what we do is essential to building trust with our Team Members, customers, and business partners. Conducting all our actions with integrity is essential to further HEICO's success.

HEICO offers several channels for raising concerns about our Code, policies, and questionable accounting or auditing matters. As a Team Member, you may first try going to your manager. If you are not comfortable with that, or if you believe your concerns have not been adequately addressed, you should report them to Human Resources, the Compliance Officer, or the HEICO Legal Department. If those options don't work for you, you can always report your concerns or violations, including with respect to accounting, auditing and internal controls, to our anonymous and confidential hotline— 24 hours a day, 7 days a week — wherever you are around the globe. It is answered by an independent third-party provider that accommodates all of the languages of our Team Members. HEICO's hotline, 'The Network,' can be reached toll-free at 1-888-270-5942 from the United States and Canada. Local toll-free numbers for the other countries where HEICO operates are available on the Company's website.

OUR POLICY

The Company maintains an "Open Door Policy" and encourages Team Members to raise questions or concerns.

Reported violations will be promptly and thoroughly investigated consistent with applicable law and, upon the advice and approval of the HEICO Legal Department, the Company may report the alleged violations to the appropriate authorities. All complaints related to questionable accounting, internal controls or auditing will be reported to the Finance/Audit Committee of the Company's Board of Directors as soon as administratively possible after received by the Company.

Team Members have a duty to cooperate with Company investigations. Failure to cooperate fully in a Company investigation or the failure to be fully truthful when providing statements or information in such investigation is grounds for disciplinary action, including termination.

Nothing in this Code or any other HEICO policy limits or prohibits you from reporting possible securities law violations directly to any governmental agency or regulator, including the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission.

YOUR ROLE

If you become aware of a situation that you reasonably suspect to involve a violation of our Code, our policies or any applicable law or regulation, you have a responsibility to report it to us. HEICO will treat all reports confidentially to the extent possible, consistent with the law, our policy, and the Company's need to conduct a thorough investigation. Team Members may always elect anonymous, confidential reporting for questionable accounting or auditing matters.

Reports may be filed by identifying yourself or by remaining anonymous. However, in Europe, specific processes have been implemented to comply with rules that limit anonymous reporting in certain limited circumstances.

If callers to The Network remain anonymous, they will be given a numeric code so they may call back and ask for follow up. Callers will be guided through the call and prompted by appropriate questions from the interview specialist. It is important that callers provide as much detail as possible. Callers will be given a date on which they can call back and receive a follow-up report. Once the call is completed, a report will be generated and sent to the Compliance Officer, responsible for administration of these procedures. Callers are urged to call back for follow up, because in the event more information is required, this will be an opportunity for them to provide those details.

Any complaint should be factual rather than speculative and should contain as much specific information as possible for proper assessment of the nature, extent, and urgency of the matter. To the extent possible, the complaint should contain:

- i. The alleged event, matter, or issue;
- ii. The name of each person involved;
- iii. If the complaint involves a specific event or events;
- iv. The approximate date and location of each event; and
- v. Any additional information, documentation, or other evidence to support the complaint.

ANTI-RETALIATION POLICY

HEICO absolutely prohibits and will not tolerate any retaliation for raising good faith questions or concerns, reporting actual or suspected wrongdoing, refusing to participate in any violation of this Code, other HEICO policies or applicable law, or participating in an investigation. You may file a report by following the steps set forth above under "The Reporting Process."

HEICO is committed to providing a workplace conducive to open discussion of its business practices. It is Company policy to comply with all applicable laws that protect Team Members against unlawful discrimination or retaliation by their employer as a result of lawfully reporting or disclosing information about violations. Company policy prevents any Team Member from being subject to disciplinary or retaliatory action as a result of the Team Member's:

- Disclosing information to a government or law enforcement agency, where the Team Member has reasonable cause to believe that the information discloses a violation or possible violation of federal or state law or regulation; or
- Providing information, causing information to be provided, filing, causing to be filed, testifying, participating in a proceeding filed or about to be filed or otherwise assisting in an investigation or proceeding regarding any conduct that the Team Member reasonably believes involves a violation of this Code, questionable accounting, internal controls or auditing, or other HEICO policy and/or applicable laws.

However, protection under this policy is lost if a Team Member files a report or provides evidence which they know to be false or without a reasonable belief in the information's truth and accuracy.

ANTI-HARASSMENT AND DISCRIMINATION

The Company believes that each Team Member should be able to work in an environment free of any form of harassment and discrimination.

We need to avoid improper reporting relationships. They can lead to potential legal exposure for the Company and perceptions of favoritism and preferential treatment among the colleagues of those involved, invariably leading to an unhealthy workplace environment.

OUR POLICY

We do not tolerate any harassment or discrimination based on Protected Status in our workplace in any form, whether by a Team Member, agent, contractor, customer or supplier.

HEICO respects an individual's freedom of association and permits its colleagues to freely associate with whomever they choose.

Examples of conduct prohibited based on an individual's Protected Status include threats, intimidation, bullying, disparaging remarks, slurs based on an individual's Protected Status, refusing to work or cooperate with certain individuals because of a Protected Status, hostile acts and denigrating or hostile written or graphic materials posted or circulated in the workplace. Sexual harassment is illegal and will not be tolerated.

"Protected Status" means race, color, creed, religion, national or ethnic origin, ancestry, sex, pregnancy, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, genetic information, age, disability, marital status, military or veteran status, or other categories, characteristics or basis protected by applicable law, this Code or our policies.

YOUR ROLE

If you observe, reasonably suspect or experience harassment or discrimination of any kind by anyone, report it immediately to your manager, Human Resources or the Compliance Officer. Any Team

Member who becomes aware of conduct that may constitute discrimination or harassment and fails to report the matter or take appropriate action to address such conduct may be subject to disciplinary action.

EQUAL OPPORTUNITY

At HEICO, we embrace and encourage an inclusive organization. This helps us serve customers and build strong relationships with our business partners. We cultivate a trusting environment where all people are welcomed, and we extend that commitment to our communities.

Our team consists of people from many different cultures, religions, and nations. We take pride in our workplace diversity as well as the fact that our members, suppliers, and other business partners come from a variety of backgrounds. We are committed to creating an environment that promotes respect and freedom from any form of harassment or discrimination.

OUR POLICY

It is HEICO's policy to promote and assure equal opportunity employment for all current and prospective Team Members without regard to any legally recognized status entitled to protection under state or federal anti-discrimination laws. This policy governs all matters related to recruitment, advertising, and initial selection of employment. It shall also apply to all other aspects of employment, including, but not limited to, aspects of compensation, promotion, demotion, transfer, lay-off, terminations, leave of absence, and training opportunities.

HEICO bases all employment decisions on merit, which include education, job qualifications, skills, and achievements.

HEICO makes employment decisions without considering your Protected Status.

HEICO does not tolerate any form of discrimination or harassment, including sexual harassment, bullying, or harassment based on any Protected Status.

HEICO is committed to providing equal opportunities and reasonable accommodation to qualified individuals with disabilities and any other protections recognized under the law.

YOUR ROLE

Do not retaliate against a person who reports harassing or bullying behavior. As stated in the Anti-Retaliation Policy above, those who do so may face discipline, up to and including termination of employment.

ENVIRONMENTAL, HEALTH AND SAFETY

HEICO is committed to protecting the health and safety of our people and the environment, which is everyone's responsibility at HEICO. Our goal is to have a positive impact on the communities where we operate and contribute to protecting and preserving our environment. Security and occupational safety is a top priority for us at HEICO.

OUR POLICY

HEICO complies with environmental, health, and safety (EHS) laws that apply to our operations and assesses the EHS risks of any new activity.

We encourage and participate in environmental initiatives such as saving energy, conserving paper, preserving natural resources, reducing waste, eliminating excessive packaging, and promoting eco-friendly solutions to Team Members, business partners, and customers.

HEICO is committed to providing a safe work environment, including providing the training, equipment, and other tools necessary to ensure a safe and healthy workplace, and adopting all measures necessary to prevent or minimize occupational risks.

HEICO complies with civil protection regulations and trains Team Members on how to respond to emergencies.

YOUR ROLE

Promptly report all work-related injuries or illnesses and all unhealthy or unsafe or work conditions to your manager, Human Resources or the Compliance Officer.

Question risky conditions, including unsafe or improper operations, near misses, or other hazards. Insist on corrective actions before work continues. Potential hazards include:

- Failure to obtain or comply with permits.

- Deviations from safe work practices – even if deviations have become “routine.”
- Lapses in security or emergency preparedness.
- Failure to maintain or provide adequate tools, guarding, protective equipment or training.
- Unsafe vehicle operation.
- Improperly shipped waste or hazardous materials.
- Unsafe vendor or customer sites.

Do not use, possess, distribute, sell or be under the influence of illegal drugs or be intoxicated while on HEICO premises or otherwise performing work-related tasks.

HUMAN RIGHTS: COMBATING TRAFFICKING, FORCED LABOR AND CONFLICT MINERALS

HEICO is committed to the fair, equitable, and inclusive treatment of all people. Everywhere we operate around the world, we work to serve people and be a force for good. HEICO is committed to combating forced labor in its supply chain, whether in the form of human trafficking, indentured labor, prison labor, or otherwise.

Furthermore, HEICO supports the humanitarian goals of U.S. laws governing the trade in “conflict minerals” (natural resources extracted in a conflict zone and sold to perpetuate the fighting). HEICO’s Responsible Mineral Sourcing Policy is available on HEICO’s website.

OUR POLICY

HEICO complies with employment laws in all countries in which we operate, including minimum wage, overtime, and maximum-hour rules.

HEICO believes that employment must be freely chosen and forbids human trafficking and forced, bonded, or involuntary labor.

We do not tolerate the exploitation of children or child labor.

We prohibit the employment of children or forced labor, including verification of compliance with legal minimum age requirements, payment of competitive salaries, and establishment of work schedules as prescribed by law.

HEICO does not knowingly work with business partners that use forced labor or are involved in human trafficking or slavery.

HEICO monitors the content of our products for conflict minerals consistent with HEICO’s Responsible Mineral Sourcing Policy.

HEICO does not knowingly and improperly use conflict minerals in our products where those minerals were sourced from the Democratic Republic of the Congo or its surrounding countries after conducting a reasonable country of origin inquiry and does not knowingly do business with business partners who have practices contrary to this policy.

YOUR ROLE

Talk with your manager or the Compliance Officer if you see:

- Unsafe conditions in supplier facilities;
- Supplier employees who appear to be underage or subject to coercion; or
- An apparent disregard for environmental standards in supplier facilities.

CONFLICTS OF INTEREST

Team Members are expected to devote their best efforts to the Company's interests and conduct business with the highest ethical standards of conduct. Business dealings that appear to create a conflict between the Company's interests and a Team Member may be unacceptable and should be disclosed. A potential or actual conflict of interest occurs whenever a Team Member is in a position to influence a decision or take action that may result in a personal gain for the Team Member or an immediate family member (i.e., spouse or significant other, children, parents, siblings) as a result of the Company's business dealings.

Although it is not possible to specify every action that might create a conflict of interest, our policy sets forth the ones that most frequently present problems. If you have any questions as to whether an action or proposed course of conduct would create a conflict of interest, you should immediately ask your supervisor, the Compliance Officer, or the HEICO Legal Department.

OUR POLICY

HEICO prohibits Team Members and their immediate family members from owning or holding significant interest in a supplier, customer, or competitor without prior clearance from a senior officer of the Company, except where the ownership consists of small quantities of securities in a publicly owned Company that trades on the open market.

HEICO prohibits any employee from accepting simultaneous employment with actual or potential suppliers, customers, or competitors.

HEICO prohibits Team Members from providing advisory or consulting services or from participating in research services, regardless of whether the engagement or research is paid or unpaid, unless permission is specifically granted in advance in writing by a senior officer of the Company.

HEICO prohibits Team Members from using company property, information, or their position for personal gain or taking personal opportunities discovered through corporate property, information, or position, unless permission is specifically granted in advance in writing by a senior officer of the Company.

YOUR ROLE

Disclose any possible conflicts to your supervisor, the Compliance Officer, or the HEICO Legal Department so that the Company may assess and prevent potential conflicts of interest from arising.

Do not engage in any activities prohibited by any Company Policy or any agreement (oral or otherwise) between a Team Member or any third party and the Company.

You are discouraged from engaging in any undisclosed and unapproved business with friends and family members, on behalf of the Company as these types of business relationships can result in a conflict of interest, or the appearance of a conflict.

You should not engage in any business outside of HEICO if it interferes with your performance or responsibilities to the Company or if it violates any agreement with the Company.

Do not solicit or accept any gifts, meals, entertainment, or other benefits from potential and actual customers, suppliers, or competitors, unless the gifts are of nominal value (less than $100, or lower depending on local custom) and the meals and entertainment are infrequent and not lavish, excessive, or of a nature which might create the appearance of impropriety.

You may entertain potential and actual customers with prior management approval if such entertainment is consistent with accepted business practices, does not violate any law or generally accepted ethical standards, and the public disclosure of the entertainment will not embarrass the Company.

You should advance and promote the Company's legitimate interests when performing your job duties or otherwise acting on behalf of the Company.

FRAUD, ANTI-BRIBERY & CORRUPTION

HEICO has established its Fraud Policy to facilitate the development of controls that will aid in the detection and prevention of fraud by or against HEICO. "Fraud" is any intentional act or omission designed to deceive others resulting in the victim suffering a loss and/or the perpetrator achieving a gain. Undetected or unresolved fraud can result in monetary and other types of losses and liability for the Company. For more details, see HEICO's Fraud Policy (available on our website).

The Company has adopted the Anti-Bribery and Corruption Policy that prevents the corruption and/or bribery of government officials or others. Bribery occurs when someone offers, pays, seeks, or accepts a payment, gift, favor, or anything of value to improperly influence a business transaction. Bribery can involve government officials or commercial parties. Countries around the world, including the United States and United Kingdom, have specific laws that could expose you and HEICO to civil and/or criminal liability for bribery and corruption. Bribes do not have to be directly paid or promised by a company but can be given by a third party acting on the company's behalf, making that company liable for the bribery even if the company does not directly authorize the activity. HEICO and those acting on its behalf may be found liable for making improper payments even if HEICO did not expressly authorize it.

Anti-bribery and corruption regulations also require the Company to maintain books and records in reasonable detail such that they accurately and fairly reflect the Company's transactions and disposition of assets.

OUR POLICY

HEICO prohibits engaging in any conduct which would constitute a Fraud.

HEICO prohibits the offering or accepting of bribes of any kind.

HEICO performs diligence into and review of the background, reputation, experience, and capabilities of third parties we retain and their conduct, including any consultant, lobbyist, contractor, and/or agent, to ensure that they fully comply with applicable laws and maintain the highest ethical standards.

HEICO maintains accurate books and records to accurately reflect and fairly report our transactions and financial results.

YOUR ROLE

If you have reason to believe or detect any irregularity that may constitute a Fraud or corruption against or within the Company, you must report that suspicion or irregularity to the Compliance Officer, the HEICO Legal Department or either of HEICO's Co-CEO's or call our anonymous and confidential hotline, The Network at 1-(888) 270-5942.

You may not use HEICO funds or assets to contribute to charities without the prior written approval of the President of your HEICO subsidiary, a HEICO Co-CEO, HEICO's CFO, or the HEICO Legal Department.

You should think critically about behavior that might indicate ongoing bribery or corruption. Some common bribery and corruption "red flags" include:

- Rumors regarding unethical conduct.
- Requests for payment to a third party rather than the customer.
- Doing business in a country with a history of bribery.

- Unusually large payment requests for the services provided or above fair market value.
- Agent is insufficiently staffed to carry out services to be provided.
- Requests for political contributions.
- Incomplete or inaccurate information in required disclosures.
- Unnecessary third parties or multiple intermediaries.
- Requests for payment via a third country or third party.
- Requests for payment in cash.
- Agent has family ties to key government officials.
- Requests for reimbursement of expenses that are poorly (or not) documented.
- Refusal to certify compliance obligations.

RECORDS & ACCOUNTING PRACTICES

Keeping accurate books and records, and retaining them for retrieval, is an important part of our daily business. In addition, various laws require us to keep certain business records, including electronic records, for specific periods of time. For specific information regarding how long to keep and how long to dispose of business records, ask your manager, Human Resources or the Compliance Officer. You are expected to retain, and should not delete, any business records, regardless of whether they are created and/or stored on your personal or business devices or accounts, unless clearly permitted by applicable law and HEICO document retention policies governing your role and responsibilities in the Company.

HEICO's responsibilities to its shareholders and other stakeholders, as well as its obligations under the laws governing corporations, require that all transactions be fully and accurately recorded in the Company's books and records in accordance with the generally acceptable accounting principles.

OUR POLICY

We will comply with all Company policies and applicable laws relating to the management and preservation of Company records.

We will prepare timely, accurate, and complete financial reports for all of our stakeholders.

YOUR ROLE

Retain all business records and comply with requests to provide relevant records when litigation, subpoenas, audits, or investigations are pending or anticipated.

Fairly and accurately maintain all records to reflect the transactions or occurrences to which they relate.

Ensure that records containing confidential information are retained and disposed of in accordance with both applicable law and Company policies and practices.

Ensure all records fairly and accurately reflect, in reasonable detail, the Company's assets, liabilities, revenues, and expenses.

Do not create false or misleading entries on the Company's books and records.

Ensure that all export records are readable and retrievable. These documents should be originals or reproductions that meet the standards of legibility and readability.

Immediately report any unusual business transaction and accounting to the Corporate Controller or HEICO CFO.

Ensure that all documentation supporting transactions fully and accurately describes the nature of the transaction, and ensure they are processed in a timely manner.

Comply with the Company's system of internal accounting controls.

Record your hours worked to the appropriate account or program in accordance with contract requirements and internal policies and procedures.

Comply with accounting procedures so that entries provide an accurate picture of the results of HEICO's operations and its financial position.

Ensure transactions are correctly classified as to accounts, departments, and accounting periods.

Ensure all transactions are supported by accurate documentation in reasonable detail and recorded in the proper account and in the proper accounting period.

ANTI-MONEY LAUNDERING

Money laundering is an attempt to conceal the origin of illegally obtained money or property, typically by funneling the illegal funds through transfers involving foreign banks or legitimate businesses or transactions. In pursuing business opportunities, it is imperative that we not allow HEICO to become a conduit for money laundering. For additional details on addressing money laundering risks beyond those included here, please visit HEICO's Anti-Bribery and Corruption Policy on our website.

OUR POLICY

HEICO is committed to complying with anti-money laundering laws.

HEICO maintains accurate books, records, and accounts that correctly reflect the true nature of all transactions.

HEICO maintains controls aimed at preventing and detecting bribery and money laundering, including, for example, by performing screening of third parties and business partners against the U.S. Office of Asset Control (OFAC) Specialty Designated Nationals (SDN) List.

HEICO prohibits Team Members from engaging in or facilitating money laundering.

YOUR ROLE

Be mindful that money laundering risks can be introduced by third-party and business-partner relationships.

Collect and understand documentation about prospective customers, agents, and business partners to ensure they are involved in legitimate business activities and their funds come from legitimate sources.

Conduct appropriate diligence to confirm the legitimacy of transactions and escalate to the HEICO Legal Department any of the following:

- Large receipts of cash.
- Suspicious transactional patterns.
- Business involving unusual accounting, jurisdictions, or terms.

Question behavior that might indicate ongoing money-laundering activities. Some common money laundering "red flags" include:

- Customer or vendor attempts to provide false information.
- Customer offers to pay cash or overpayments followed by requests for refunds.
- Orders, purchases, or payments that are unusual or inconsistent with a customer's trade or business.
- Unusually complex deal structures.
- Unusual fund transfers to or from countries unrelated to the transaction.
- Transactions structured to evade recording or reporting requirements.

EXPORT/IMPORT LAWS AND ANTI-BOYCOTT

HEICO sources, uses, buys, and/or sells some of its products from foreign partners. There are complex laws and regulations that govern imports and exports, and we must follow all of these applicable laws and regulations.

Countries often restrict or forbid business with certain countries, companies, or individuals. We do not cooperate with unlawful boycotts. We comply with these sanctions and embargos in our export and sales decisions. We will not proceed with any transaction prohibited by any trade sanction or embargo. We also do not export or re-export anything that could be seen as cooperating with an unlawful boycott.

OUR POLICY

HEICO will comply with the export and import laws of countries with which it does business.

HEICO will not do business with countries, governments, organizations and individuals that are prohibited by the United States government or other applicable and controlling laws or regulations; these are usually countries that the United States government considers a threat to national security, including supporters of crime and international terrorism.

HEICO complies with sanctions and embargos imposed by authorized countries in our export and sales decisions.

HEICO does not export or re-export anything that could be seen as cooperating with an unlawful boycott, and HEICO will not proceed with any transaction where anti-boycott concerns are not sufficiently addressed.

YOUR ROLE

Consult with HEICO's Trade Compliance Department by emailing tradecompliance@heico.com if there is any doubt regarding export or import regulations.

Be sure to reference HEICO's Trade Compliance Manual and other related documents, which can be requested by emailing tradecompliance@heico.com.

Use the Company's license with Descartes Visual Compliance to screen customers, applicants, sales representatives, visitors, vendors, and other intermediaries.

Follow up immediately with the HEICO Trade Compliance and/or Legal Departments if a transaction raises anti-boycott concerns.

Question behavior that might indicate ongoing suspicious boycott or import/export activities. Some common trade compliance "red flags" include:

- Customer or recipient are on the SDN List or similar prohibited persons list.
- Customer or purchasing agent reluctant to provide end-user information.
- The product's capabilities do not fit the buyer's line of business.
- Results of Descartes Visual Compliance search raise questions or suspicions.
- Customer has little/no business background.
- Customer is unfamiliar with the product's performance characteristics but still wants it.
- Customer declines routine installation, training, or maintenance services.
- Delivery dates or destinations are vague or unusual.
- Unusual shipping route for the product and destination.
- Packaging is inconsistent with stated shipment method or destination.

- Customer is evasive and unclear about whether the product is for domestic use, export, or re-export.
- Item ordered is incompatible with technical level of country to which it is being shipped.
- Customer is requesting to pay cash for a very expensive item when the terms of sale would normally call for credit terms.

CONFIDENTIAL INFORMATION: PRIVACY AND INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY

HEICO's confidential and proprietary information is one of its most valuable assets. It includes, but is not limited to, customer information and relationships, contact lists, pricing, business and marketing strategies and plans, submission and proposal procedures, inventions, designs, technology, patents, copyrights, proprietary information, trade secrets, know how, procedures, manuals, customer lists, financial data, confidential reports, tools, methods, and other confidential information.

Because of the nature of the Company's business, Team Members also have access to or knowledge of confidential information and trade secrets of the Company and of third parties. These are valuable, special and unique assets, and keeping this information and these trade secrets confidential is essential to the continuation of the business.

HEICO has many kinds of business relationships with many companies and individuals. Sometimes, they will volunteer confidential information about their products or business plans to induce HEICO to enter into a business relationship. Other times, we may request that a third party provide confidential information to permit the Company to evaluate a potential business relationship with that party.

OUR POLICY

HEICO aggressively protects its confidential and proprietary information and enforces its rights against others who take or use it without proper authorization, including Team Members.

HEICO respects the legitimate proprietary rights of others and avoids the unauthorized use of intellectual property that belongs to other people or organizations.

HEICO is committed to complying with applicable laws addressing data privacy and cybersecurity, and has a legitimate interest in protecting data, along with systems containing such data, from unauthorized access or misuse.

HEICO is committed to complying with global laws regulating the processing (including security) of personal data belonging to HEICO Team Members, customers, suppliers, and other third parties. Personal data is broadly defined as any information relating directly or indirectly to an identifiable person (or in some jurisdictions, a legal entity).

YOUR ROLE

Keep in the strictest confidence any knowledge of HEICO's and its customers' confidential and proprietary information, both during and after your employment.

Only use or distribute HEICO's confidential and proprietary information for the benefit of HEICO.

Report any improper use of customer information or data or security breach immediately so proper action can be taken.

In all situations, observe obligations of confidentiality and non-disclosure of confidential information and trade secrets of others, including suppliers and former Team Members, with the same diligence used to protect HEICO's own confidential information and trade secrets.

Do not collect any personal data by deceitful means.

Respect privacy rights and protect against cyber risks to HEICO information, networks, and products.

USE OF HEICO PROPERTY AND TECHNOLOGY

Protecting HEICO's assets is a key responsibility of every Team Member. The Company's assets must be used solely for business purposes. All Team Members should ensure that assets are not misappropriated, loaned to others, or sold or donated, without appropriate authorization.

Our technology and data are critical for everyday operations. The Company has developed software internally or acquired the requisite licenses to use all of the software installed in our systems. Accordingly, all rights to such software are the Company's sole and exclusive property.

Technology will continue to evolve and impact how and where people work. Along with the improvements that this evolution may bring come new challenges for ensuring Company technology, systems and data are always safe and secure.

OUR POLICY

HEICO has adopted security measures to protect our technology, systems, and electronic data.

HEICO owns, and may access and review for any business purpose, all information, communications and data sent from, received by, or stored on HEICO systems, technology and computers.

HEICO is committed to adhering to third-party lawful electronic access and licensing restrictions.

YOUR ROLE

Protect the Company's systems, technology and computers, and the information and electronic data stored in them.

Know and comply with the policies and guidelines concerning the use of the Company's systems, technology and data.

Use HEICO's systems, technology, and computers responsibly and for business purposes only.

Only use HEICO's systems, technology, and computers to access, use, or download third-party software or systems for which a valid license or other required approval exists. If you have any questions regarding a particular software or system, contact HEICO IT.

Always exercise good judgment, reasonable discretion, and extreme caution when handling all information contained in electronic files, especially when handling information while working from home or otherwise being away from the office.

Immediately report theft, attempted theft, property damage, and other misuse of HEICO, systems, technology and computers to your manager, IT Contact or the Compliance Officer.

INSIDER TRADING

From time to time, Team Members may have access to information about HEICO's business which has not been disclosed to our shareholders and the investing public. Material non-public information means information relating to HEICO, its business operations or its securities that, if made public, would likely affect the market price of HEICO securities, or would likely be considered important by a reasonable investor in determining whether to buy, sell, or hold such securities. Trading stock, including in connection with the exercise of stock options, on the basis of inside information, regardless of how small or large the trade, is a serious violation of U.S. Securities Laws and may result in disciplinary action, including termination, as well as fines, penalties and imprisonment if prosecuted by government authorities.

HEICO also maintains an Insider Trading Policy, which is available on our website.

OUR POLICY

HEICO prohibits the use or sharing of material non-public information for financial or any other personal benefit.

HEICO imposes quarterly trading windows, during which Directors, Officers, and certain designated HEICO Team Members may only purchase and sell securities of HEICO. Except as set forth in the Insider Trading Policy, there are no exceptions.

YOUR ROLE

Do not trade HEICO securities or options from the moment you have received material non-public information about the Company until that information has become public or is no longer material. You may begin trading after the close of business on the first trading day following public disclosure of the information. For example, if the information is publicly disclosed on Monday, trading may commence after the close of business on Tuesday.

Do not assist anyone else, including family members, to trade HEICO securities or options, or the securities or options of any other company, by improperly disclosing inside information to them or by recommending that they trade such securities or options.

Do not trade in HEICO securities or options when you have access to internal financial statements or to material information concerning anticipated quarterly financials that has not yet been made public, from the close of business on the last day of any fiscal quarter until after the close of business on the first trading day following public disclosure of the financial results for the fiscal quarter.

You may also not trade in the securities of other companies as to which you have obtained material non-public information by reason of your employment with HEICO.

Avoid sharing material inside information with any person or entity outside of HEICO unless it is necessary for HEICO's business activities and proper control methods are in place (such as a non-disclosure agreement).

These restrictions apply to transactions in HEICO securities even after termination when in possession of material non-public information.

Read HEICO's Insider Trading Policy and follow its requirements.

Contact the HEICO CFO or General Counsel prior to placing any order to trade HEICO securities if you are uncertain about whether or not you are free to trade or if a blackout period is in effect.

COMMUNICATION AND USE OF SOCIAL NETWORKS

Whether communications are on Company email or on social media, your communications can be a direct reflection on HEICO. Improper or inaccurate information can harm the Company's reputation and negatively impact HEICO's ability to conduct business.

Social media has changed the way many of us share information on a daily basis. While social media creates new opportunities for communication and collaboration, it also brings additional responsibilities that we must know and follow. "Social media" includes a vast array of websites and online resources, including social networking sites (e.g., Facebook, X, Instagram, Snapchat, YouTube, LinkedIn), blogs, photo and video sharing sites, forums, and chat rooms, among many others that exist today or may be developed in the future.

OUR POLICY

HEICO requires all media and promotional requests to be consistent with Company objectives.

Team Members who are authorized to post on social media sites for the Company may only post information for authorized HEICO business purposes and only post information that complies with this Code and other Company policies.

YOUR ROLE

Do not state or imply that you represent or speak for or on behalf of the Company when communicating in public forums, online or otherwise, if you are not authorized to do so. Make clear that you do not represent or speak for or on behalf of the Company.

Act responsibly when using personal social media accounts; what you post can adversely affect your reputation and the reputation of HEICO. This Code applies to all forms of communication, including your personal social media posts.

Do not post confidential information about HEICO or our colleagues, customers, suppliers, or business partners on any social networking sites.

If approached to speak for the Company by a third party such as a reporter or an analyst, kindly refrain from answering any questions and direct them to the HEICO Co-CEO's or CFO.

RELATIONSHIPS WITH CUSTOMERS, SUPPLIERS, AND THIRD PARTIES

HEICO is dedicated to maintaining an ethical and lawful supply chain. As part of this commitment, we seek business partners, such as customers, suppliers, agents, or other third parties, who share our commitment to ethical business practices. HEICO is committed to doing business with a high level of integrity. Our products and services are designed to high internal standards, which comply with applicable laws, regulations and contractual obligations. We ensure our invoices are accurate as they pertain to pricing, terms and conditions for the sale of our products and services.

While the majority of HEICO's business is done through HEICO sales professionals, HEICO sometimes engages sales representatives and agents, contractors, and other third parties to provide services and to act on its behalf. It is imperative that such third parties maintain the integrity and ethical standards of our supply chain as well.

OUR POLICY

It is important to closely evaluate and scrutinize the conduct of third parties we retain, including any consultant, lobbyist, and sales representative or agent, to ensure that they fully comply with applicable laws and maintain the highest ethical standards, with increased scrutiny paid to business partners who interact with government officials on our behalf.

HEICO must conduct the proper due diligence on its business partners, both domestic and international, to ensure that they are not listed on the SDN List or any other U.S. Government's sanctioned or prohibited parties lists.

Suppliers, sales representatives, agents, and distributors must be chosen with the same care and treated with the same respect as our customers.

Commissions, fees, and discounts must:

- Be set out in a written agreement.
- Reflect the value to HEICO of the service being provided.
- Never exceed amounts that are reasonable and customary in our industry.

The service to be provided by third parties must be legal, proper and documented.

Payments:

- Must never be made in cash, except in cases of emergencies in locations where no alternative payment method is available and prior approval is obtained from the Compliance Officer or the HEICO Legal Department.
- May only be made against an accurate and complete invoice.

Do not enter into any contract or agreement with any business in which a government official or Team Member holds a significant interest without the prior written approval of the HEICO Co-CEO's, CFO, or Legal Department.

YOUR ROLE

Ensure that the Company's relationships with third parties are always proper, lawful, and documented, in fact and in appearance, whenever such relationships occur.

Ensure that third parties representing the Company are made aware of their responsibility to act in accordance with this Code.

FREE AND FAIR COMPETITION: ANTITRUST

The United States, and most other countries, have laws designed to encourage and protect free and fair competition. These laws govern relationships between HEICO and competitors, including pricing practices, discounting, bids, credit terms, promotional allowances, exclusive dealerships or distributorships, restrictions on carrying competing products, marketing or development strategies for products or services, and many other trade practices.

Antitrust laws, also known as “competition” or “consumer protection” laws, are in place to protect those who compete fairly and punish those who do not. Therefore, HEICO must fully understand these laws to ensure compliance and avoid even the appearance of unlawful activity, because the violation of antitrust laws has severe consequences.

OUR POLICY

HEICO is committed to obeying both the letter and spirit of antitrust laws and must never collude with other companies in ways that would deprive customers of the benefits of competition.

HEICO is committed to not speaking dishonestly about our competitors and not seeking competitive information using unethical or illegal means.

HEICO generally permits suppliers to sell its products or services to HEICO's competitors, except where the products or services have been designed, fabricated, or developed using HEICO's or a HEICO business partner's trade secret.

YOUR ROLE

DO NOT enter into a formal agreement, informal agreement, or verbal understanding with any competitor that is intended to or could appear to:

- Fix or set prices or terms;

- Divide, allocate, or manipulate markets, customers, or territories;
- Manipulate bidding processes; or
- Improperly tie or bundle services by conditioning the purchase of one product or service on the purchase of another where such conduct could harm customers.

Avoid agreements or understandings of any kind with competitors that could appear improper.

Immediately stop the conversation, make clear that you cannot participate, and promptly report the incident to HEICO's General Counsel if a vendor, competitor, or other business partner attempts to converse with you at a meeting, trade show, or in any other setting about any of the topics mentioned in this section.

TRANSACTIONS AND INTERACTIONS WITH GOVERNMENTS

HEICO Corporation and its subsidiaries have always maintained the highest standards when dealing with potential and existing customers, including government agencies and entities. The specific purpose of this directive is to affirm HEICO's policy with respect to transactions with the United States Government and with other governments. Improprieties related to the government procurement process could damage the Company's reputation and otherwise result in serious adverse consequences to the Company and to Team Members involved, including termination, fines, penalties and imprisonment.

When working with government officials or entities, including government-owned or controlled companies, HEICO has a duty to know and follow applicable Company policies and established laws, rules, and regulations that govern our interactions with such government customers or entities. It is important to note that these rules may be stricter and more complex than those governing our dealings with commercial customers.

OUR POLICY

To preserve the Company's excellent reputation as a responsible supplier, HEICO requires all Team Members to refrain from engaging in any conduct that could be construed to be in violation of the law when dealing with the United States Government, other governments and their respective officials.

HEICO commits to following the highest ethical standards of honesty and integrity in conducting business with and attempting to win government work, and any violation of this trust will be cause for disciplinary action, up to and including termination.

HEICO will comply with the unique rules, procedures, and restrictions regarding contacting or engaging in employment and contractor-related discussions with current or former government employees. If you have any questions, seek prior approval from the HEICO Legal Department.

HEICO will comply with the terms of our government contracts and other applicable regulations requiring the safeguarding of classified and other sensitive information and will only make this information available to those who have a business need to know it and have obtained the appropriate government clearance or other approvals.

YOUR ROLE

Do not take improper actions that would give HEICO an unfair competitive advantage, such as obtaining or using sensitive procurement or pricing information.

Ensure the accuracy and completeness of all representations made by the Company, including pricing and bids.

Do not offer, solicit, promise, give, or accept any form of bribe or kickback to or from an actual or potential government customer or official.

Do not solicit or accept any form of bribe or gift from a supplier in exchange for favorable treatment in the award or performance of a government contract.

Ensure that the Company only uses reputable consultants, sales agents, or other professional service providers and independent contractors for legitimate legal purposes.

Ensure the accuracy of all statements and records that the Company provides to government customers (including facility and quality reports and cost and pricing data).

To avoid mischarging any costs, accurately record your time and identify and assign your time only to projects on which you work.

Follow all contract terms and never use government property, equipment, or supplies in a manner that would be inconsistent with applicable law or contractual agreements.

Follow all applicable rules and regulations that govern how we engage current or former governmental employees in discussions about potential job opportunities at HEICO.

Safeguard classified and other sensitive information acquired by HEICO in connection with the work we do for our government customers.

Do not share, distribute, or disclose classified or otherwise sensitive government information in a manner that would violate the terms of our government contracts.

Though not the only regulations to be concerned with, pay particular attention to the following areas when dealing with any government:

- Compliance with antitrust laws.
- Governmental agencies' policies regarding business entertainment and gratuities.
- Conformance with government conflict of interest regulations.
- Certification of cost and pricing data where applicable.
- Proper allocation of contract costs.
- Allowable costs for government contracts.
- Adherence to quality control requirements.

Clear any questionable situations regarding any of the topics mentioned in this section with the HEICO Legal Department.

WAIVERS OF THE CODE

Waivers of any provision of the Code are generally not permitted. In unusual circumstances, HEICO may find it appropriate to approve a Team Member's request for approval of action that otherwise would not comply with our Code. Any approval for a waiver of our Code must be sought in advance and may only be granted by HEICO's Co-Chairmen and Co-CEO's, CFO, or General Counsel. The Audit Committee should be notified of any such waiver. Waivers of this Code for members of the Board of Directors or for executive officers of the Company may be granted only by the Board of Directors or a responsible Committee thereof and must be promptly disclosed to shareholders in accordance with the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002. When a waiver is granted, the Board or its designated Committee will ensure that appropriate controls are in place to protect the Company and its shareholders.

CODE OF ETHICS FOR SENIOR FINANCIAL AND OTHER OFFICERS

HEICO has adopted a specific Code of Ethics for Senior Financial Officers and All Other Principal Officers related to financial matters including the HEICO CEO's and CFO (set forth below in Appendix II). This Code of Ethics has been adopted to ensure the continuing integrity of the Company's financial accounting and reporting procedures in accordance with applicable law.

CODE OF BUSINESS CONDUCT TEAM MEMBER RECEIPT & ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I have received a copy of the HEICO Corporation Code of Business Conduct and have read it carefully. I understand all of the guidelines, practices, and policies referenced therein and agree to abide by them. I understand and agree that if I violate the guidelines, practices, and policies in the Code of Business Conduct that I can be disciplined for my conduct and may even be terminated.

I understand that our Company reserves the right to change, amend, or delete any or all of the information contained in this Code of Business Conduct at any time as dictated by the circumstances of the business.

I further understand that signing this Receipt and Acknowledgment form does not, nor is it intended to, confer any rights or benefits or employment, or constitute an assurance of continued employment or employment other than at-will.

1. Any person, firm, corporation or organization of which the employee is an officer or partner or is, directly or indirectly, the beneficial owner of ten percent or more of any class of equity securities, or
2. Any trust or other estate in which the employee has a substantial beneficial interest or as to which such person serves as trustee or in a similar capacity, or
3. Any son, daughter, brother, sister, or parent of either the employee or his or her spouse, the spouse of an employee, and any relative of the employee or his spouse who has the same home as the employee.

The word "Associate" does not include banks, trust companies or insurance companies or other like financial institutions under state or federal supervision.

Company

The term "Company" means HEICO Corporation and each affiliate, division and subsidiary of the Company.

Immediate Relative

Any parent, child, brother or sister (including full siblings, adopted siblings, step-siblings, and half-siblings).

Interest

An employee shall be deemed to hold an "Interest" in a person, firm or corporation if he or any Associate of his:

1. Owns, directly or indirectly, an interest in the business or property of such person, firm or corporation, or

3. Is in any manner a borrower or creditor (other than as a depositor in a legal banking institution), employee, agent, representative, officer, director, or consultant of such person, firm or corporation.

However, for practical reasons, an individual will not be deemed to have an "Interest":

1. In a corporation by virtue of his ownership of less than 1% of a class of securities issued by such corporation if the corporation is a publicly owned corporation, and if the security is listed on a recognized stock exchange or if it is traded over the counter and regularly quoted in lists published by The Wall Street Journal unless the individual acquired such securities with the knowledge that negotiations were either contemplated or in progress between the Company and such corporation, whereby that corporation might become a supplier to or might be supplied by the Company or whereby the Company might acquire an equity or financial position in or with respect to such corporation, or
2. In a person, firm or corporation if the interest consists solely of the employment by such person, firm or corporation of an Associate in a clerical or other nonmanagerial position.

Any person or business that is owned or managed by a supplier or customer or which is under common control of a party is a Related Party (for example only, if XYZ Supplier and QRS Supplier are both owned by ABC Corp., XYZ and QRS are Related Parties and you should disclose any Payments in excess of $100 for XYZ and QRS in total, as they are not considered separate parties). A gift(s) valued at more than $100 does not necessarily violate Company policy but failure to disclose it does.
